APPARATUS NEEDED

MAYOR THOMPSON GIVES INFORMATION ABOUT COMING BOND ELECTION

December 4, 1916.

Editor Glendale Evening News, Glendale, California.

Dear Sir:

At the request of numerous citizens, kindly permit me the use of a little space in the columns of your paper for the purpose of information on the coming bond election for additional fire apparatus.

In response to numerous requests to the board of trustees from the public in general and business men in particular, the Public Welfare committee was instructed to thoroughly investigate and report to the board of trustees in detail the equipment necessary, and the approximate cost of same to give Glendale the fire protection that is needed and should have. I herewith beg to submit statement in detail from the Public Welfare committee:

August 28, 1916.

To the Honorable Board of Trustees of the City of Glendale.

Gentlemen:

In regard to new equipment for the fire department, we respectfully submit the following:

After going over the matter very carefully with the chief of the fire department and the city manager, we are strongly of the opinion that the fire fighting equipment as per list hereto attached should be added to the equipment of the fire department, the cost of which is too great to be paid for out of the yearly tax levy. Therefore, we respectfully recommend that the city attorney be instructed to prepare proceedings for the calling of an election to submit the proposition of voting bonds in the amount of $15,000.00 for the purchase of fire fighting apparatus.

Most respectfully submitted,
PUBLIC WELFARE COMMITTEE.
Signed) F. L. MUHLEMAN,
R. M. JACKSON.

Statement

One pumping engine	$ 9,250.00
2000 feet fire hose for new truck 85c per foot	1,700.00
600 feet fire hose for the two old reels, 85c per foot	510.00
200 feet 1-inch chemical hose 50c per foot	100.00
400 feet 1½-inch fire hose 60c per foot	240.00
Pump installed on present apparatus	1,500.00
One light chassis for chemical tank taken off apparatus	1,000.00
Two siamese connections	48.00
Partitions and beds for station	300.00
Miscellaneous nozzle tips and small tools	85.00
New wheels on fire apparatus	241.00
Total	$14,974.00

My personal investigation shows that cities the size of Glendale, such as South Pasadena, Alhambra, Venice, Whittier, Riverside and many others that are not half as large, have two or three times the amount of apparatus that Glendale has. This apparatus usually consists of one pumping engine, as contemplated in the bond election and auxiliary apparatus, such as we have at the present.

The citizens of Glendale should give this important question serious thought and investigation. It is for you to individually decide whether or not the facilities we have at present afford ample protection to our homes and the business districts.

Respectfully yours,
J. S. THOMPSON,
Chairman Board of Trustees.

DORAN STREET P. T. A.

The regular meeting of the Doran street Parent-Teacher Association will be held Wednesday, December 6, 1916, at 3 o'clock. There will be a short business session followed by a program.

Mrs. Danford, the librarian, will speak and Miss Bessie Provolt will give a selection on the piano. Refreshments and social hour will follow.

JUDGE MILLER'S BUSY DAY

Judge Miller had but a few moments of leisure Monday. In addition to a civil and a couple minor cases of disturbing the peace, county officers brought in seven men taken off a freight car at Burbank—which at first were thought to be I. W. W's. It was apparently proven, however, that none were I. W. W. but in fact were regular hoboes, being young fellows out of work, with little money who got on the freight and some of them tipped the brakeman to ride to Los Angeles. Judge Miller dismissed them all on thirty days' probation.

AT THE CAPITOL

LEGISTATORS HAVE GRIEVANCE WITH CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION

That we are likely to see the beginning of World peace is indicated by a movement started here in California with that end in view. Not satisfied with electing a president, California is going to do something for the world; that is if she exercise the prestige and power of this movement by bringing sufficient influence to bear upon certain manufacturers here in the United States who are contributing very largely toward the continuance of the war by supplying the belligerent nations with munitions. Any other direction of this effort at peace will result as fruitlessly as a certain peace ship that, laden with influential men, sailed for Europe, then sailed back again, leaving the war-flame still burning and bringing only individual publicity.

There is scarcely a state official about the capitol but whom has a grievance against the State Civil Service commission and would like to see its powers curtailed by the incoming legislature. Its word of approval on all state pay rolls is greater than the board of control and state controller combined. It can reject any employe's salary it does not care to approve of. In the face of opposition to its present functions, Charles Wesley Reed, the San Francisco member, is said to be working on a minority report to the legislature which suggests the elimination of three $3,00-a-year members and make one commissioner at $5,000 with still greater authority. Reed is not supported in this by his fellow commissioners, Edgar Williams of Redlands and J. M. Hunter of Los Angeles, but they are anxious to be given additional power. The legislature is likely to be the scene of a lively scrap with the Civil Service commission the bone of contention.

Lucky is the member of the next legislature who goes home to his constituents with a nice appropriation. The state board of control is now making up a budget for the coming session to act upon, and the requests for state funds not included in that list will stand the chance of a peace dove in the trenches. State offices and institutions need all the available funds without attempts at "pork barrelism."

WEST GLENDALE W. C. T. U.

On Friday, December 8, there will be held at the West Glendale M. E. church a Woman's Temperance Council. Meeting will open at 10:30, Mrs. Phelps, county president of the W. C. T. U., will preside. The afternoon session opens at 1:45. All of the county officers are to be present and assist in the program. Mrs. Phelps will speak on "The California Dry Campaign, Past and Future."

Mrs. Smart is to speak on "What the International Expects of Us."

Ladies are invited to bring box luncheons. Coffee will be served by the local union.

FATHERS' MEETING

The Parent Teachers' association of the Colorado Boulevard school will hold its regular meeting Friday, December 8, at 8 p. m. This meeting has been especially planned that the fathers may have an opportunity of attending. The topic for the evening will be the Government Reading Course for children given under the direction of Mrs. Kelley, chairman of education, Mrs. Charles H. Toll and Mrs. Frank Chambers. There will be music and recitations followed by refreshments and a social hour. All patrons of the school, friends and members are cordially invited.

LIBRARY SERVICE

The Glendale library is reaching out beyond what some might consider its natural sphere and is helping to solve that old question which is ever paramount at this season of the year, "What shall I get for her or him for Christmas?" Mrs. Danford, librarian, and her assistants have compiled a list of books that are suitable for Christmas gifts for either sex and any age and will be glad to give any advice or information along this line to any one who is undecided as to just what is suitable and appropriate for a Christmas gift for any certain person. It is of course understood that their special training fits them to perform this service very satisfactorily. In addition to this convenience, the librarians have collected on one shelf books suitable for Christmas reading for the patrons of the library who are in search of such material.

PRESIDENT OUTLINES LEGISLATION

WILSON IN MESSAGE TO CONGRESS APPEALS FOR SETTLEMENT OF RAILROAD QUESTION

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 5.—President Wilson in his message to Congress appealed for a speedy settlement of the railroad question. Declaring that the country should not longer be exposed to the present industrial disturbance, he appealed for a settlememnt of this difficulty. A statement of the need of such legislation comprised the bulk of the message, which was the shortest delivered by the president. He urged the passage by the House of the vocational, industrial and educational measures passed by the Senate. The president began reading his message at 1:02 p. m. today.

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

EL PASO, Dec. 5.—Charles Elmendorfs, an American, has telegraphed from Chihuahua, "We are safe." This is believed to mean all the Americans that were in Chihuahua. Elmendorfs was repeatedly reported as being killed. No word has been received of Villa since he evacuated the city. It is believed he is splitting his army to loot Western Chihuahua.

SUFFRAGETTES ARE IGNORED

PRESIDENT CONTINUES READING MESSAGE DURING DEMONSTRATION IN VISITORS' GALLERY

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 5.—While President Wilson was reading his message to Congress a group of suffragettes unfurled a banner in the gallery, reading, "Mr. President, What Will You Do For Woman's Suffrage?" A page was sent to tear down the banner and the president continued reading as if he had not seen the banner.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

The home of Dr. and Mrs. C. G. Farrow of 1314 Doran street, was the scene of a happy event Monday, their little daughter Virginia celebrating her fourth birthday anniversary on the fourth day of the month and covers were laid for four at the dainty luncheon table. Her little guests were Dicksy Lane, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. R. C. Lane, Catherine Henry, daughter of Mrs. H. V. Henry, and Dorothy Clark, daughter of Mrs. O. O. Clark.

A luncheon club of which Mrs. Farrow is a member had their meeting at her home on the same day, and her guests were seated at another table. The decorations were all suggestive of the Christmas season. Mrs. Farrow was assisted in entertaining by Virginia's grandmother, Mrs. Benjamin Smith Farrow, and her aunt, Mrs. J. E. Osborne.

After school the little folk were joined by C. G. Farrow Jr., Alice Farrow, Ruth Lane and Catherine Guthrie. The little miss received many lovely presents that delighted her young heart. The cutting of the birthday cake was of course, one of the principal events of the luncheon, the little girl's wish being "a new automobile for father."

The members of the luncheon club, who were guests of Mrs. Farrow, spent the afternoon in needlework and music, those present being Mrs. Frank Hester, Mrs. C. B. Guthrie, Mrs. Coles, Mrs. J. R. White Jr., Mrs. A. D. Cross, Miss Lou Ramsay, Mrs. Wooster and baby daughter Roberta.

GRAY-MAXWELL WEDDING

On Saturday, December 2, at 2 p. m. at the home of her parents, 1517 East Colorado street, Pasadena, Miss Lora Leone Maxwell became the wife of Mr. James Everett Gray. The ceremony was performed by Rev. C. R. Norton of Glendale, only the immediate relatives of the bride being present. Mr. Gray is employed by the government and left the following day to resume his duties on his ship. They will likely reside in Long Beach.

Mrs. Gray has many friends in Glendale where she was very favorably known, having been employed at the First National bank for a long time. Her numerous friends here will extend hearty congratulations for a happy wedded life.

AT GLENDALE HIGH

STUDENTS WILL SOON BE IN MIDST OF HOLIDAY ACTIVITIES

Once more we find ourselves up to our ears in the holidays, and with their many social affairs. Indeed, Thanksgiving has passed and in two more weeks we will be sailing the pleasant waters of Christmas vacation.

Class parties, club socials, boys' rallies, girls' rallies, mountain hikes and dances, not to mention the many smaller affairs which always increase in number during this season, are all on the calendar for the month of December. But even with them, the very thought of two weeks' vacation would be sufficient to bring joy to the heart of the average student, for even though he does like to study, he also can cheer at the announcement of vacation time. And he usually does so.

One of the big events of the winter in Glendale High is the annual Christmas party of the Deutcher Verein which will "come off" Wednesday, December 13 at 1:30 in the school gymnasium. Eats, games and stunts are being arranged, and with Miss Eggert at the helm, it promises to be some party.

The Alumni members of the Duetcher Verein are invited to be present and they are further invited to give a stunt. With all the Dutchmen who have graduated from the school a stunt should not be hard to arrange. Alumni members who intend to be present will kindly notify Mary Stellar.

The spirit of Christmas will be evidenced at this party even to the tree. Everyone will get a present. The fact that Herbert Scheuner and Homer Morgan are on the "eats" committee insures a real German menu, too.

There is considerable agitation in the school at the present time in favor of a weekly paper. Practically every high school in the state has one, and it is claimed that school spirit cannot prosper without a school paper. A group of enthusiasts on the subject are threatening to start a weekly independent of the student body if action is not taken soon. It is believed that a good paper from any source would receive the support of the students.

WORDS OF APPRECIATION

We, the ladies of the Philanthropic committee of the Tuesday Afternoon club, wish to thank all who helped make our booth at the bazaar on December 2 so successful. And we are now making a special effort to collect our fruit for the children's hospital, the King's Daughters' Day nursery and maternity cottage. Will you not help by taking some dried or canned fruit, jelly or peanut butter to Mr. Bott at the Glendale Book Store, 413 Brand boulevard, or telephone Glendale 232J on or before December 20.

MRS. L. W. SINCLAIR,
Chairman.

CHAUTAUQUA CIRCLE

The Glendale Chautauqua Circle will meet at the home of Miss Brockman, 341 Belmont street, Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

The program for the day will be as follows:

Roll call—Quotations from Longfellow.

The lesson—Chapters one and two of France Under the Republic.

Home Life in Germany, chapter ten.

Sketch of Francis Joseph.

Sketch of Albrecht Durer.

Current Events.

Any one interested in Chautauqua work is invited.

POULTRY SHOW NOTES

Secretary Batty is the busiest man in the big tent today.

Four hundred and thirty entries made up to midnight last night.

The present show is exceeding all expectations in number of entries and quality of birds.

The assortment of bantams on exhibit is a show within itself, nearly every known specimen is on exhibition.

The numerous pheasants and parrots came in for their share of admiration.

The Japanese silkies, the exhibit of Pearl J. Olds, of 208 South Jackson street, is attracting considerable attention.

Mrs. Carl Anderson and daughter Ruth, of Long Beach, who formerly resided in Glendale on North Louise street, visited friends and relatives here from Friday to Monday evening.

MAINTAINING FINANCIAL RELIABILITY

A man does not necessarily need to be wealthy to possess that very important characteristic, "financial reliability." There are men worth many thousands of dollars who are slow to pay what they owe. They began life with that careless way of doing business, and they will go down to the grave with the habit of being careless to meet financial obligations.

Fortunate, indeed, is the young man who in early life learns the value of a dollar, and is just as anxious to pay a debt as he is to have some one pay him what they owe him. Financial credit is a wonderful aid to a business man, and if he can not be accommodated by it, he has only himself to blame for conditions.

Early in life every person should take a pleasure in saving money, and that habit should be cultivated. The saving should not be prompted by a miserly spirit, but it should be prompted by a spirit of self independence and thrift which qualifications tend to make a desirable citizenship. Every young man should learn to be master of his financial situation. He should not contract debts that he cannot pay. The "pay cash" system is a very safe practice for a young man, and if perchance he finds it to his advantage to buy on credit, he should do so only after weighing the question carefully in his mind, and being sure that he can meet the obligation when it becomes due. The owing of a debt should not be considered a trivial matter by any one who wishes to be honorable and possess financial credit.

Before engaging in business a man should do some serious thinking. This is a just but exacting world when it comes to extending favors in which there is a money consideration. Thousands will advise you to invest money in an unreliable business, but not one of the thousand will lift a hand to assist you when the sheriff threatens to turn the key in the door of your place of business. Many men who advised you to invest your money in business will laugh at your failure.

Deal fair with persons to whom you may be under obligations financially, pay all bills promptly when due; keep your promise; do not make weak and unreliable excuses. Be a man in every sense of the word.

EXTENSION OF FOREIGN TRADE

We hear much these days about seizing the opportunities presented by the present world war to extend our foreign trade and get control of the commerce of the seas. Among the organizations working exclusively to this end is the Latin-America Trade Bureau established two years ago in Los Angeles with John C. Allen as director. This bureau declares that there is not a thing made or grown or an animal bred in this country that cannot be sold somewhere in Latin America, which is our nearest and most logical territory. In seeking good fields for our exports we should not pass by this one so near at hand. The bureau publishes a monthly magazine in Spanish that circulates in the territory in which we wish to establish trade relations. Manufacturers advertising in this journal are already receiving results. The bureau takes the advertising matter of the manufacturer, reads it, gets the idea and writes another in form and tone as one Latin-American would write to another. Literal translations are not good as business getters. The bureau is an intermediary between the seller in Southern California and the buyer in Latin America, and in addition is a free information bureau in regard to the countries of South America.

As there are so many raw materials and products in Latin America not produced in this country, and as the utilization of these products by the manufacturers of this country will greatly facilitate the sale of our manufactured articles in those countries, any agency that can tend to bring the north and south together along these lines is to be encouraged in every way.

AMBASSADOR TAKES AMERICAN VIEWS TO GERMANY

Ambassador James W. Gerard today sailed on the steamer Frederick VIII to resume his duties at Berlin, leaving the president determined to pursue the same course as formerly toward Germany.

The ambassador carried with him a clear summary of this government's attitude on all questions now pending between Germany and the United States, gained in conferences with the president in the first talks he has had with the president since the war began. While here the ambassador assured those with whom he talked that the danger of certain radical elements in the empire overthrowing the influence of the German government was trifling.

Before sailing Gerard expressed the belief that many of the belligerent countries—Germany, at least—will do all of their buying in their own countries.

"If peace and prosperity is to continue," he told a group of New York business men, "we must give permission for business men to combine for foreign trade." The president embodies this same idea in his message to Congress today.

CANAL NOT A TOTAL FAILURE

In spite of the fact that enemies of Col. Goethals have been trying to show up the Panama canal as a total failure, and though slides have interfered seriously with operations of vessels through the Panama canal since its opening on August 15, 1914, from that date to August 15, 1916 a total of 2,097 vessels passed through and the tolls collected amounted to $7,411,682. The deepest draft ship to use the waterway to date was the Ohioan, drawing 29 feet 4 inches. The shallowest draft to use the canal was a P. R. R. barge drawing 2 feet. The longest vessels were the Korea and Siberia, 552 feet long.

JOURNAL OF COMMERCE

The Journal of Commerce is the name of a six-page paper that is being distributed to business men in Glendale and throughout the Glendale Union high school district which includes La Canada, La Crescenta and Eagle Rock. This paper is sent out by the commercial department of the Glendale Union high school which is in charge of Prof. Herman C. Joy. The paper is typewritten and is itself an example of what the commercial department is doing. The department of vocational training is attracting more and more interest as the young people come to realize that a thorough business course is invaluable no matter what line of work they wish to take up. This department is organized very efficiently with Mr. Joy as teacher of business correspondence, Commercial Geography and advanced bookkeeping; Miss Helen Goldthwaite, teacher of stenography and arithmetic and George F. Sawyer teacher of elementaryy bookkeeping, penmanship and arithmetic. The Journal of Commerce which is to be issued as occasion may call for, gives a comprehensive review of what the classes are doing and this should be appreciated by the patrons of the school.

Some of the pupils mentioned for excellence of work are: Rapid calculators, Ervin Potts, Henry Pahland, Hattie Beckman, Jeanette Schneck, Roy May, Beatrice Smith, Bernice Haun, Kenneth Perrin and Raymond Bruce.

Expert shorthand writers—Louise McClement, Helen Fischer, Lois Mack, Gladys Sherwood, Edith Dart, Bessie Mock. You can't beat 'em.

Excellent typists—Irene Ward, George Lamoreaux, William Balthis, Margaret Boucher, Wendell Belden, Lehman Crandall, Bessie Mock, Bernard Gunion, Mabel Eckles, Jennie Allen, Cecelia Lyons, Mary Ellen O'Leary, Marian Hoopes, Merle Frentz.

CLUB BAZAAR BIG SUCCESS

The Tuesday Afternoon club bazaar is now past history. That it was an artistic success will be acceded by the large number of people who viewed it. The beautiful setting which made the holiday goods irresistable was all of it the work of Mrs. J. F. Hearnshaw with the exception of two of the booths—the doll and flower booths. Mrs. Menzo Williams deserves the credit for the beautiful arrangement of the doll booth, and Mrs. W. W. McElroy for the flower booth.

The bazaar was not only an artistic success, it was a financial success as well, in spite of the inclement weather. Incomplete returns from booths which had incurred bills make it impossible to state with any accuracy the amount cleared for the building fund. The board of directors, however, express themselves as satisfied with the apparent result. Announcement of the exact amounts received from the various booths will be made at an early date at the club.

Mayor Thompson held the lucky number which drew the beautiful cake displayed at the handkerchief booth. This cake is now on display at Munson's drug store. It was decorated by a Glendale lady who was taught the art by the one who decorated President Wilson's wedding cake.

Mrs. John Hunchberger received the lovely hand-made handkerchief won in the guessing contest conducted at the handkerchief booth. The committee has some plans in regard to the handkerchief donated by Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, when through diligent tracing it makes its belated appearance.

The board of directors and members of the Tuesday Afternoon club desire at this time to express their sincere thanks to the Glendale Evening News and Glendale Press for generous publicity; to Mr. J. A. Newton, who furnished and installed the electric lighting for the flower booth; to those who assisted in the program; to the husbands of members, and to all those friends outside the club, both juvenile and adult, whose generous financial support and unselfish service insured the success of the bazaar.

THANKSGIVING

By C. L. Bullard

Let's raise a whoop of thankfulness
upon the swelling breeze
The city Dads have acted on the trimming of the trees;
You cannot taste the freshness of their verdure any more
By an unexpected mouthful as you did in days of yore.
You do not have to leave the walk
and tread upon the grass
Because the branches hang so low
they will not let you pass.
No longer now you lift your voice to rave about your luck,
Because on nearing certain trees you didn't think to duck.
And thank the city manager on Sunday morning that
You do not enter church with streaks of dust upon your hat.
In short, you walk the streets erect and hold your shoulders
square,
Nor fear to open up your lungs to fill them full of air.
Now if they'd only trim the dogs as they have trimmed the trees,
I'd raise again my thankful song
upon the swelling breeze.

Personals

Mr. and Mrs. Roberts of Twin Pines have returned from a few days' trip to their mountain camp in the Sierra Nevadas.

Dr. and Mrs. Colin Cable of 755 Columbus avenue, attended the theatre in Los Angeles Friday evening, witnessing "Intolerence."

Rev. C. R. Norton reports a delightful experience in visiting among friends and preaching at his former charge at Cucamonga on Sunday.

Mrs. Cunningham and daughter Maud of Glendale were guests of Mrs. Robert Dover of Whittier for a few days the first of last week.

Mrs. Markham, Mrs. Helen Bennett and daughter, Miss Gertrude Bennett, were recent dinner guests of Mrs. Colin Cable of 755 Columbus avenue.

The Ladies' Aid of the Presbyterian church held an all-day meeting today in the Sunday school room of the church. The day was spent tying comforts.

Mrs. Charles L. Evans of 323 Orange street had as luncheon guests recently Mrs. C. H. Temple and children, Marjorie and Charles, and little Miss Edith Shafer.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Fortune have rented their home furnished for the winter and have gone to Santa Barbara where Mr. Fortune has some large engineering contracts.

Mr. and Mrs. Cameron D. Thom and children, Livingstone and Virginia, of 145 Isabel street, spent the week end in San Diego, taking in the beauties of the exposition while there.

Mrs. E. S. Clark and her son, H. T. Clark, have taken a suite of rooms for the winter at Easton's hotel on Brand boulevard. They were formerly located at 228 North Maryland.

Mrs. Frank I. Marsh of 113 North Central avenue entertained at a dinner party on Thanksgiving Day, Mrs. Eva M. Blair of Los Angeles, J. B. Hickman, Mrs. D. H. Imler, Eugene H. Imler and Miss Cora Hickman.

Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Alexander of the Glengarry Studio spent Thanksgiving with relatives in Covina. Mr. Alexander returned to Glendale Friday and Mrs. Alexander tarried until Monday of this week.

The Young Peoples' branch are giving a Get-Together party tonight at the home of Mrs. John Paul, 533 South Orange street. New and old members and friends are cordially invited. Remember the hour, 7:30.

The Glendale Carpet Cleaning Works will be closed until Wednesday on account of the death of Mrs. Roberts, L. W. Woodson's grandmother, who passed away today at the home of her daughter in Los Angeles at the age of 83 years.

Mrs. Will M. Cross, who for the past month has been the house guest of Mrs. David Imler at Palm Villa, has returned to her home in Brawley. Mrs. Cross enjoyed her visit immensely and liked this section of the country very much.

The Sisterhood of the First M. E. church held a very unique study evening Monday night. A review of the last quarter's lesson was given in the form of guessing games and charades, different individuals of the Sunday school representing the Bible characters. A very pleasurable as well as profitable evening was spent.

Madame Constance Balfour, who recently sang for the Tuesday Afternoon club, entertained yesterday afternoon with a musical tea at her studio in Blanchard Hall, Los Angeles. A most delightful program was presented by some talented pupils of Madame Balfour. Julius Kranz, violinist of Glendale, rendered one of his own compositions accompanied by Mrs. Mattison B. Jones. Madame Balfour concluded the program by singing a group of songs by Julius Kranz and J. Carl Briel. Many noted musicians were present.

The Rector's Guild of St. Mark's Episcopal church met yesterday afternoon at the home of the rector, D. Mills, when plans were discussed for the boys' choir which it is expected will be ready to sing next Sunday or the Sunday following. The next meeting of the guild will be held next Monday at the home of Mrs. Hayward on West First street.

The people of Glendale are especially fortunate in having an opportunity to hear Dr. Charles Edward Locke. He will deliver his lecture, "The Blue in the Sky," under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid society of the First Methodist church, corner Dayton Court and Third street, tonight at 8 o'clock. Spencer Robison, who sang for six years in Dr. Locke's church, will sing.

The Thursday Afternoon club will hold a philanthropic meeting Thursday afternoon, December 7, at 2:30, at the city hall, Tropico. Mr. Spickle of the county welfare association, will be the speaker of the day. It will be a donation day and food, clothing or anything anyone desires to contribute to the philanthropic work will be accepted. A cordial invitation to attend is extended to the men.

Miss Camile Astor and Mr. Stefan Norvakowski will dance Polish national dances at the All Star vaudeville show to be given at the Palace Grand theatre Friday night. Miss Astor was a favorite on the stage in one of the big theatres in Warsaw, Poland. Mr. Norvakowski was born in this country but is a wonder in these difficult dances. It will be a treat to have the opportunity of seeing these dances.

W. B. Kirk, special agent for the Provident Life Insurance company, has just received a beautiful silver loving cup from the manager of the company for excelling in life insurance production. Some time ago a silver cup was offered to the agents in Southern California for the one selling the most insurance in a given time. Mr. Kirk came within $4000 of being the winner and the general manager thought his ability should be recognized also. The cup is suitably engraved.

Mrs. H. E. Bartlett, as president, represented the Tuesday Afternoon club at the luncheon given in Los Angeles yesterday, when nearly 150 prominent clubwomen and presidents of the Federated clubs were guests of the chamber of commerce. Mrs. C. W. Kimberly of Tropico, president of the Tropico Thursday Afternoon club, represented that club, and Mrs. Charles Barker, past president of the Tropico Thursday afternoon club, Miss Gibbs and Mrs. Bancroft of Tropico, were others who attended the luncheon. After talks on the wisdom of buying home products and the duty of the housekeeper toward her own city and state, a number of clubwomen were asked to give brief talks expressing their views. The opinion as expressed in these talks was unanimous that women cannot very easily purchase Los Angeles manufactured goods at present for the simple season that they do not know what to ask for. They stated that home products must be advertised and plainly marked if they are to prove successful.

RED CROSS WORK

The regular meeting of the Red Cross society was held Monday in St. Marks Guild Hall. The ladies accomplished a great amount of work on the bandages and found the new bandage winder made by Reginald Whitaker to be a very ingenious arrangement. Some hospital shirts were finished, and work was begun on the second bolt of cloth. The meeting next week will be the last of the year and also the first anniversary of the organization of the society. It is hoped there will be a good attendance as the pockets of the hospital shirts will be filled at this time. Personal messages, post cards and other articles will be placed in the pockets of all the shirts made. Mrs. Frank England is to be the hostess at the next meeting when an important announcement will be made in regard to changing the name of the society.

QUOIT CLUB SCORES

Horseshoe pitchers are unlike race horses in one particular at least, as it is necessary to have hot, clear weather to get the best out of a race horse, but yesterday being a cool, damp day, was the occasion of some sensational pitching. Among the high scores made yesterday was that of a single series pitched by Head, Porter, Blatchley and Denny in which a total of 181 points and 140 ringers. The ringers were divided as follows:

Head, 40; Porter, 38; Blatchley, 32, and Denny 30.

DOLL SALE

The remainder of the dolls unsold at the bazaar will be sold Thursday afternoon, December 7, between 2 and 4 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Menzo Williams, 1325 North Central avenue. Prices 25c to $2. 84t3

The Tropico M. E. Ladies' Aid will on Thursday, December 7, commencing at 1 o'clock have for sale in the Flower building, 115 San Fernando Road a splendid collection of quilts, rugs, aprons, fancy work, etc. Chicken pie dinner commencing at 5:30. 84t3

ORATORICAL CONTEST FOR YOUNG PEOPLE

Having finished the Birdhouse Contest and Exhibit for this year, the Glendale Garden Society now offers prizes to those young people who best repeat the poem by Wordsworth entitled "Daffodils", a copy of which appears in this issue of the News.

All boys and girls wishing to enter this competition should get busy at once and learn the poem. The contest will take place on Thursday evening, January 4th, in the library of the Third Street school, at the usual meeting of the Glendale Garden Society. Mrs. H. E. Bartlett and Mr. S. Jamieson have very kindly promised watches as first prizes to the successful boy and girl.

Attention, Boys and Girls

To the boy and the girl who best repeat this poem on the evening of the first Thursday in January, (the 4th) will be presented handsome prizes by the Glendale Garden Society.

Daffodils

I wandered lonely as a cloud
That floats on high o'er vales and hills,
When all at once I saw a crowd,
A host of golden daffodils;
Beside the lake, beneath the trees,
Fluttering and dancing in the breeze

Continuous as the stars that shine
And twinkle on the milky way,
They stretched in never-ending line
Along the margin of a bay;
Ten thousand saw I at a glance,
Tossing their heads in sprightly dance.

The waves beside them danced, but they
Outdid the sparkling waves in glee,
A poet could not but be gay
In such a jocund company;
I gazed—and gazed—but little thought
What wealth the show to me had brought.

For oft, when on my couch I lie
In vacant or in pensive mood,
They flash upon that inward eye
Which is the bliss of solitude;
And then my heart with pleasure fills,
And dances with the daffodils.

—WILLIAM WORDSWORTH.

Comments on Birdhouse Contest

Mr. Sawyer, High School—Encouraging boys to make birdhouses shapes their mental attitude toward preservation of bird life; such education influences not only present boyhood, but future manhood.

Charles Widney—One of the finest movements ever inaugurated—of incalculable benefit to the young people, and a splendid publicity advertisement for Glendale.

J. W. Usilton, President Chamber of Commerce—A wonderful enterprise, magnificently carried out.

Ex-Mayor Lane—A credit to the town. The Glendale Garden Society is doing a great work.

Mrs. Cunningham, Montrose—The Birdhouse Contest and Exhibit must surely produce a splendid moral effect upon the young people; it is one of the best movements I have ever heard of.

Mrs. Hutchinson, President P. T. A. Federation—A wonderful success. Serves to stimulate children's civic pride.

Norton Wells, Tropico—The Glendale Garden Society is effecting the biggest civic work ever undertaken in any community.

Ezra Parker—I am glad to be a member of the Glendale Garden Society.

Mrs. William Smith—A pleasure to be able to assist in such a worthy cause.

Mrs. Willisford—A wonderful, splendid work.

Mrs. Cora Taylor—A beautiful idea; a wonderful thing for the children.

Mrs. Stone, teacher—The young people have certainly done well.

Mrs. Frank Hester—The exhibit is perfectly astonishing.

Mrs. M. Sherman—It is splendid, and a wonderful thing for the young people of Glendale and Tropico.

Dr. Flint—Glad to assist in such a fine work.

Miss Johnston—A fine display. This great work will foster an interest in birds, and teach the children to protect them.

THREE NEW RESIDENCES

Herbert M. Potter who recently became interested in Glendale property, is becoming a live wire on First street between Adams street and Glendale avenue. Mr. Potter has become the owner of the Leavitt tract, and will build three fine residences at once. His first act is to build a garage in which he will reside until the dwelling house he will use for his home is completed.

Mr. Potter is superintendent of the Dos Banderas Oil & Gas Company at Tampico, Old Mexico, and has the reputation of being amply able to finance whatever he undertakes.

MOTHERS' STUDY CIRCLE

The Mothers' Study Reading circle will meet Thursday, December 7, at 2 p. m. in the library of the Pacific avenue school. As this is the season of pleasurable anticipation, the reading circle may look forward to having a visitor in the near future—a lady who is vitally interested in the study and who will undoubtedly make the meeting one of unusual interest. All interested in the training of children are invited to attend these meetings.

AN IRISHMAN'S LOVE FOR THE FLAG

The following story from the American Red Cross Magazine of October, 1916, related by Corporal James Tanner, was handed us by Rev. James S. O'Neill, who said it made him reminiscent. Father O'Neill had four uncles in the Civil War who fought for "Old Glory."

One, Captain Jerry O'Neill of the Ninth Massachusetts Volunteers, was only twenty-two years old when he was shot down and captured at Malvern Hill and died at Libby prison. All four of the uncles belonged to the Irish Ninth Massachusetts.

"Three beds to my right, as I lay in that long ward, lay an Irishman, full of good nature, with a keen sense of humor, ardently devoted to the cause of liberty the world around, fighting from day to day and hour to hour a desperate but unavailing battle for life. Many a time his witty observations brought a smile to the pain-contorted features of those lying in the beds immediately around him. His disposition was to see clearly the humor of life and to skip over the hard points as lightly as possible; but less and less frequently came these humorous outbreaks on the part of Pat. So it was that one day the good priest who had visited him several times before, being advised by the doctor, came into the ward, sat down by Pat's bedside, and as gently as he could broke the dread news to him that he had but a few hours to live.

Liberty-Loving Irishman's Farewell

"I was lying on my side, facing that way, and had a side view of Pat's blanching face as he grasped the awful truth. I saw his hand steal out and grasp that of the priest, whose own eyes were suffused with tears; the muscles of his face twitched; his breast heaved convulsively. Then he asked: 'Will you do me a favor, Father?' 'Certainly, what is it, Pat?' 'Turn my bed around; I want to look out of the window.' We were all lying on narrow hospital beds, with rollers under them. The priest arose moved the chair in which he had been sitting, and, stepping to the foot of the bed, rolled it around so that Pat could look out of the window, wondering, I have no doubt, as I did, what his desire was. But almost instantly we knew. He desired to look at the old flag once more, and it had been necessary to move his bed thus in order for him to get a sight of the flagstaff and the flag at the top.

"I have read poems galore and listened to many orations, which have apostrophized the flag, but I have never read or heard anything that entered my soul so intensely as did that unlettered Irishman's eulogy of it. A smile broke on his face as he exclaimed: 'There ye are, darlin', at the top, an' there ye'll shtay 'til ye float onchallenged from Maine to the Gulf of Mexico! I loved ye before I ever saw ye on yer own sile; I've prayed fer ye an' I've fought for ye; an' now they tell me I must die for ye. I wish I could shtay to see yer final triumph, but it isn't God's will. I hope He'll let me look down from above and see it when the time comes. God bless ye! Good-by, old flag! good-by!'" Then with a sob he turned to the priest, who sat listening intently, and said: 'Ye'll write to her, Father. Break the news gently. Sore'll be her heart when she finds that Pat will come back no more to Biddy an' the b'ys. Tell her for me to bring the b'ys up so that they'll be men an' patriots an' shtand fer the flag even unto death, as their father has.'

"There flashed across my mind the memory of how near akin were the thoughts of Pat and of the Michigan man who died near me that first night on the floor of the Van Pelt farmhouse. When Pat had finished his message to his wife, in a softer tone he said: 'An' now, Father, fer me soul's salvation.' When I awoke the next morning Pat's bed was empty. Some time during the night his soul had gone to God."

CHARACTER AND REPUTATION

There is a difference between character and reputation. Character is what a man is; reputation is what he is thought to be. Men of good character are generally men of good reputation, but this is not always the case, as the motives and actions of the best of men are sometimes misunderstood and misrepresented. But it is important above everything else that we be right and do right, whether our motives and actions are properly understood and appreciated or not. Nothing can be so important to any man as the formation and possession of a good character. —Edmund Burke.

A wise man pays homage to worth; a fool to wealth.

YESTERDAY

I am gone from you forever.

I am the last of a long procession of days, streaming behind you, away from you, pouring into mist and obscurity, and at last into the ocean of oblivion.

Each of us has his burden, of triumph, of defeat, of laughter, of bitterness; we bear our load from you into forgetfulness; yet as we go we each leave something in your subconsciousness.

We fill your soul's cellar.

I depart from you, yet I am ever with you.

I am one of the leaves of a growing book. There are many pages before me. Some day you shall turn us all over and read us and know what you are.

I am pale, for I have no hope. Only memories.

I am rich, for I have wisdom.

I bore you a child, and left him with you. His name is Experience.

You do not like to look at me. I am not pretty. I am majestic, fateful, serious.

You do not love my voice. It does not speak to your desires; it is cool and even and full of prudence.

I am Yesterday; yet I am the same as Today and Forever; for I am you; and you cannot escape from yourself.

Sometimes I talk with my companions about you. Some of us carry the scars of your cruelty. Some the wretchedness of your crime. Some the beauty of your goodness. We do not love you. We do not hate you. We judge you.

We have no compassion; only Today has that. We have no encouragement for you; only Tomorrow has that.

We stand at the front door of the past welcoming the single file of days, that pass through, watching Tomorrows becoming Todays and then enter among us.

Little by little we suck out your life, as vampires. As you grow older we absorb your thought. You turn to us more and more, less and less toward Tomorrow.

Our snows cumber your back and whiten your head. Our icy waters put out your passions. Our exhalations dim your hopes. Our many tombstones crowd into your landscape. Our dead loves, burnt out enthusiasms, shattered dream houses, dissolved illusions, move to you, surround you.

Tomorrows come unnoticed. Todays slip by unheeded. More and more you become a creature of Yesterdays.

Ours are banquet halls full of wine-soaked tablecloths, broken viands, wilted roses.

Ours are ghastly Pompeiian streets, rich galleons a hundred fathoms deep, genealogical lists of sonorous names, mummies in museums, fragmentary pillars of battered temples, inscriptions on bricks of Ninavah, huge stone gates standing amidst the tropical verdure of Yucatan, Etruscan wine jars now dry and empty forever.

Ours are the old credulities. With us are Wotan, Zeus, Ormund, Isis, Vishnu.

From us comes that miasm of inertia that holds humanity in thrall; from us comes the strength of warmakers, monarchs, and all the privileged.

We reach up long, sinewy, gray arms of custom and tradition, to choke Today and impede Tomorow.

We are the world's Yesterdays. If you knew enough to put your feet upon us you might rise rapidly. But when you let us ride on your backs we strangle and smother you.

I am Yesterday. Learn to look me in the face, to use me, and not to be afraid of me.

I am not your friend. I am your judge—and your fear.

Tomorrow is your friend.

LIFE'S MIRROR.

There are loyal hearts, there are spirits brave,
There are souls that are pure and true;
Then give to the world the best you have,
And the best will come back to you.

Give love, and love to your life will flow,
A strength in your utmost need;
Have faith, and a score of hearts will show
Their faith in your word and deed.

Give truth, and your gift will be paid in kind,
And honor will honor meet;
And a smile that is sweet will early find
A smile that is just as sweet.

For life is the mirror of king and slave,
'Tis just what we are and do;
Then give to the world the best you have,
And the best will come back to you.

—Madeline M. Bridges.

WINTER WOODS

"Winter is no less beautiful than other seasons. . . . Changed to be sure, is the face of Nature—her greenness is confined to the fields and the lichen-covered tree-trunks. In place of the assertive verdure of June there is the prevailing brown, Nature's predominant note in northern latitudes, the color of earth, with its familiar earthy frangrance. . . . This color of earth, so elusive in summer, when its homely scents are lost in the fragrance of the flowers, and its strangely friendly mold labors beneath the foliage of a myriad growths, comes upon us in winter-time with the surprise of revelation. . . . The masses of foliage have been stripped from the branches, and strewn like the fragments of marble around a statue; then rises out of its soft brown carpet in all the uncloaked majesty of a perfet thing, the leafless tree, intricate yet symmetrical, graceful yet strong, a symbol of beauty.

"This is but one joy of the winter woods; it is the joy in beauty of form. No less beautiful is the color of the woods when the trees are bare. For there the soft browns of the fallen leaves blend with all the more delicate shades of green peculiar to shy mosses and furtive lichens, and the mysterious blue branches, startled by illuminated clusters of yellow fungi. Then do the pines wave dark-plumed heads above limbs of flame, and the white arms of the dancing birch-trees glisten in the sun."—Holbrook Jackson.

DID YOU?

Did you give him a lift? He's a brother of man,
And bearing about all the burden he can.
Did you give him a smile? He was downcast and blue.
And the smile would have helped him to battle it through.
Did you give him your hand? He was slipping down hill,
And the world, so I fancied, was using him ill.
Did you give him a word? Did you show him the road,
Or did you just let him go on with his load?
Do you know what it means to be losing the fight,
When a lift just in time might set everything right?
Do you know what it means—just a clasp of a hand,
When a man's borne about all a man ought to stand?
Did you ask what it was—why the quivering lip?
Why the half-suppressed sob, and the scalding tears drip?
Were you brother of his when the time came of need?
Did you offer to help him or didn't you heed?

—Tid-Bits.

I WILL.

By S. E. Kiser.

I will start anew this morning with a higher, fairer creed;
I will cease to stand complaining of my ruthless neighbor's greed;
I will cease to sit repining while my duty's call is clear;
I will waste no moment whining and my heart shall know no fear.

I will look sometimes about me for the things that merit praise;
I will search for hidden beauties that elude the grumbler's gaze;
I will try and find contentment in the paths that I must tread,
I will cease to have resentment when another moves ahead.

I will not be swayed by envy when my rival's strength is shown;
I will not deny his merit, but I'll strive to prove my own;
I will try to see the beauty spread before me, rain or shine—
I will cease to preach your duty and be more concerned with mine.

THE WAY OUR CHILDHOOD WENT.

This a-way an' that a-way, an' in an' out an' through—
Through the gate of mornin' an' a lane of dancin' dew,
Through a day of sunshine an' a day of weepin' rain,
Through a day of pleasure an' another day of pain;
O'er the fields of summer, through the valley of Content,
'Cross the fields of Wonder was the way our childhood went.

Don't you mind the faces of the tired little men
Trampin' on beside us through the orchard lands of Then?
Don't you mind the maidens with their lips of cherry red
Puckered sweet as blossoms that was bloomin' overhead?
Mind how nature's music an' the children's voices blent
Whilst we went a-singin' down the way our childhood went?

Now the world is changin', an' it seems to me today
All its golden splendor is a-fadin' plum away,
An' there's less of music in this gray old world of his.
What there is is "out of tune," as ol' time sayin' is.
Yet we keep on livin' an' contrive to be content,
Happy—jist a-dreamin' of the way our childhood went.

HOME

I turned an ancient poet's book,
And found upon the page,
"Stone walls do not a prison make Nor iron bars a cage."

Yes, that is true,
And sometimes more;
You'll find wher'er you roam.
That gilded walls
And marble halls
Will never make a home.

But every house where Love abides
And Friendship is the guest
Is truly home,
And home, sweet home,
For there the heart can rest.

AN EDITORIAL ABOUT EDITORS

A country school boy was told to write an essay on editors and this is the result:

"Don't know how newspapers came to be in the world. I don't think the Good Lord does, for He ain't got nothing to say about an editor in the Bible. I think the editor is one of the missing links you read of, and stayed in the bushes until after the flood, and then came out and wrote the thing up and has been here ever since. I don't think he ever died. I never seen a dead one and never heard of one getting licked.

"If a doctor makes a mistake he buries it and people dassant say nothin'.

"When the editor makes a mistake there is big swearing and a big fuss, but if a doctor makes a mistake there is a funeral, cut flowers and perfect silence.

"A doctor can use a word a yard long without anybody knowing what it is, but if an editor uses one he has to spell it.

"If a doctor goes to see another man's wife he charges for the visit; but if the editor goes he gets a charge of buckshot.

"Any old college can make a doctor, but an editor has to be born."—Exchange.

Facts and Comment

Directors of the Long Beach chamber of commerce have decided to circulate among residents agreements to buy exclusively in Long Beach for a period of at least one month.

The November market for lemons has not been as strong since 1910 as it has been for the past few weeks and it promises to remain as good during December. Lemon importations have been the smallest recently that they have been since the war began.

Prosecutions under the Sherman act is contemplated by Mayor Woodman of Los Angeles in his fight against alleged combinations for the raising of food prices. He has asked the county sealer of weights and measures to make an investigation of the matter.

A citrus institute will be held in connection with the Seventh National Orange Show, to be held at San Bernardino February 20 to 28. Prof. D. L. Crawford of Pomona College will be asked to take charge of the educational feature, that will include papers and addresses by leading citrus fruit authorities of the United States.

Unanimously adopting resolutions condemnatory of a referendum election on the jitney franchise, directors of the Long Beach chamber of commerce last Friday voiced the sentiment that citizens can do the community an important service by refusing to sign the petitions now being circulated in an attempt to force submission of the question to the people. Reasons of sound policy were summarized by the men, who endeavored to show why thoughtful citizens should resist ill-considered agitation for special elections.

At a mass meeting of women in Los Angeles December 1, the Los Angeles Housewives' League was organized, and the question of combatting the rapidly increasing cost of foodstuffs taken up. The league will be affiliated with the National Housewives' League. The women also discussed the establishment of a municipal slaughter house and a municipal fish market and aired grievances against alleged practices of holding up prices of foodstuffs. When a permanent organization has been effected the matter of egg and potato boycotts will be taken up unless there is some improvement in conditions from the customer's point of view. The first steps will be a resolution asking President Wilson and congress to declare an embargo on foodstuffs exportation, and another asking the council to establish city markets asked for.

HOT STUFF

A clergyman was very fond of a particular hot brand of pickles, and finding great difficulty in procuring the same sort at hotels when traveling, always carried a bottle with him.

One day, when dining at a restaurant, with his pickles in front of him, a stranger sat down at the same table, and pretty soon asked the minister to pass the pickles. The divine, who enjoyed a joke, politely passed the pickles, and in a few seconds had the satisfaction of seeing the stranger watering at the eyes and gasping for breath.

"I see by your dress," said the man, when he had recovered, "that you are a parson."

"I am, sir."

"I suppose you preach?"

"Yes; about twice a week usually."

"Did you ever preach about hell fire?" inquired the stranger.

"Well, yes; sometimes I deem it my duty to remind my congregation of eternal punishment."

"I thought so," said the stranger; "but you are the first of your class I ever met who carried samples."—Harper's Magazine.

THE POETRY OF NATURE

If it be true, as some poets think, that every spot on earth is full of poetry, then it is certainly also true that each place has its own distinctive measure, an indigenous meter, so to speak, in which its poetry will be truly set and sung. . . . There are woods that are like stately sonnets and others of which the truth would best be told in tender lyrics; brooks which are jocund songs, and mountains which are odes.—Helen Hunt Jackson.
